

PLAN PROPOSED TO IMPROVE PARK

Committee of Citizens Appointed by Mayor Ross to Make Recommendations to Council.

FAVORS PUBLIC PLAY GROUND

Suggests That Attention be Given to Beautify Grounds With Flowers and Shrubbery.

After carefully considering several plans with the view of popularizing the city park and improving the grounds the committee appointed by Mayor Ross several weeks ago will file its first recommendations with the council tonight. The committee is composed of Mrs. L. A. Ebner, Mrs. B. F. Schneck, Albert Ahlbrand, C. D. Billings and Charles Kessler, and was appointed to cooperate with the park committee of the council in beautifying the grounds. The committee has received a number of valuable suggestions from Superintendent T. A. Mott, who is interested in the work and has been working on a plan to establish a public playground in the city.

The small amount of funds available proved an obstacle to the committee and it was decided to adopt a system which would be permanent and could be carried out from year to year as the park money became available. In the past no system has been followed and as a result needless expenditures were made without apparent benefits.

The committee, it is understood, is favorable to the playground plan and will urge that it be established at once, or as soon as practicable. It is recommended that a baseball diamonds be made, tennis courts constructed, and apparatus such as swings "see-saws" and slides be purchased for the amusement of the younger children. This is in line with the plan that was proposed by a number of citizens about a year ago when a petition was circulated and signed by many citizens asking that such a playground be provided.

The committee believes that adequate equipment can be purchased for about $350. The park fund amounts to about $650 annually but heretofore the greater portion of the money has reverted to the general fund and only a small amount was spent on the park.

The committee also believes that some attempt should be made to beautify the grounds and may ask that it be empowered to employ a landscape gardener to assist in formulating a plan. It is suggested that the entrance ways be improved and that additional walks be constructed. According to the idea of the committee flowers and shrubbery should be used. The committee realizes that the entire plan cannot be carried out at once and only a beginning can be made this year. It is stated that more lights are needed throughout the park as it is too dark now to be patronized satisfactorily. The fountain, which has been in need of repair for some time should be given attention and the committee is of the opinion that the expense would not be large.

While it may not be possible to do so this year it has been suggested that a shelter house, large enough to accommodate a thousand or more people, be erected. During the last few years several churches and other organizations have held meetings at the park during the summer months and are required to pay for the tent. This cost could be avoided if the shelter tent were constructed. Several prominent business men have volunteered to give from $50 to $100 apiece towards the erection of such a building. It is thought that the contributions would be large enough to go a long way towards paying for the building. It would also provide a place for picnic parties in case of rain and storms. It is probable that a custodian will be appointed for the park this summer. If such a position is created and the officer would give his entire time to the park he could keep it in a much better condition.

The council will probably discuss the recommendations of the committee at a date in the near future, as it is desired to have at least part of the playground equipment ready for use in a short time.

SUTTON WOMAN SENTENCED TO PRISON AND FINED HEAVILY

Judge Swails Finds Her Guilty as Charged After Hearing Testimony of Witnesses.

After hearing the evidence in the case of the State against Catherine Sutton, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a girl, Judge Swails found the defendant guilty and sentenced her to six months at the Woman's Prison at Indianapolis and assessed a fine of $500. The case was tried Wednesday and the state introduced some strong evidence against the woman.

The defendant was represented by the county attorney, H. H. Prince, and pleaded not guilty. On the stand she denied the charges but the prosecuting attorney had subpoenaed a number of witnesses who corroborated the story told the local police by the defendant's daughter. The testimony of the girl was regarded as damaging to her mother. The Sutton woman is the second to be sent from Jackson county within the last two months on this charge.

The effort being made by the Fort-nightly Club of the Baptist Church on next Monday evening is to be applied on the indebtedness of brick street and furnaces. The people who have autos have responded splendidly to the call for assistance at this time. There have been twenty-five autos engaged, if there are others, who will volunteer their cars for this occasion, the ladies will appreciate it if they will phone 108.

CHAUTAUQUA PLANS WILL BE DISCUSSED

Directors of Seymour and Columbus Associations Will Hold Conference at Early Date.

CHANCE TO EXCHANGE IDEAS

Local Committees Busy With Preliminary Arrangements—Rest Tents to be Placed in Rows.

In a letter to Clark B. Davis, secretary of the Seymour Chautauqua Association, the directors of the Columbus Chautauqua Association have asked that a conference be held in the near future when matters of mutual interest may be discussed. It was stated in the communication that in this manner experiences could be exchanged with profit to both associations.

The directors of the Seymour association readily accepted the invitation and a date will be suggested at the next meeting of the board Friday night.

Columbus has also asked concerning the new seats which have been made for the local association, and wanted to know if they could be rented. There will probably be no difficulty in renting the benches as the board expected to offer them to other associations. The benches were made especially for the Seymour Association and are slightly different from any other model manufactured. They are equipped with backs tilted at an angle to afford all the comfort possible. They are made in sections and require but a small amount of room when stored away. The seats will be a great improvement over the plain benches used last year.

The local Chautauqua association is already receiving inquiries about the entertainments this year and it is predicted that many strangers will attend. The program is one of the best available and includes several of the most prominent speakers, musicians and entertainers on the American platform. Believing that the attendance at all the sessions will be much larger than last year the committees have made arrangements to accommodate several hundred more people than was possible last summer. The tent this year will be the same size but the stage will be built outside the canvass giving more room for seats. The same stage will be used as last year as it was considered one of the most artistic and handsome seen in any chautauqua in the middle west. In fact, the entertainers last summer that only in one or two places had then seen its equal.

This year the smaller tents will be arranged in rows along at least one street. A plan has been drawn showing that the smaller tents will be erected in the southwest corner of the park, the space used heretofore for parking automobiles. Machines this summer will be parked north of the main entrance. Abundant shade will be provided for the tents as a row of large trees will be in front and back of the tents.

Many families expect to camp at the park during assembly week and have asked that tents be reserved for them. The committee is anxious to know just how many small tents will be needed and have asked those who expect to rent them to notify the committee at once.

U. S. EXPRESS CO. TO RETIRE JULY 1

Wells-Fargo Company Enters Into Contract with B. & O. Railroad to Handle Traffic.

INCLUDES THE SOUTHWESTERN

Retiring Company Said It was Forced from Field Because of Parcel Post Competition.

Contract was executed today between the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company and the Wells-Fargo Express Company whereby the express traffic handled by the United States Express Company, retiring from business, will be taken over by the Wells-Fargo Company. The contract will go into force and effect July 1. The contract applies to all lines of the B. & O. including the B. & O. Southwestern and the C. H. & D. Railroad.

The Wells-Fargo Company is one of the largest express companies in the world and the agreement entered into by the Baltimore & Ohio Lines will extend the shipping service in the communities served by the railroad.

The Wells-Fargo Company has trans-continental service in the United States as well as its own agencies in the big cities of Europe. It also gives service to the Hawaiian Islands and Alaska.

The United States Express Company announced several months ago that it would retire from business. The officials stated that they were compelled to go out of business because of the competition of the parcel post service and the low rates at which express is now handled.

It is not known whether or not its several thousands of offices throughout the country will be continued. It is believed, however, that the business will be carried on as usual through the Wells-Fargo Company and that there will be no interruption of service.

Special School Edition.

On Friday, May 29, the Republican will issue a special school edition. It will contain the pictures of the Seniors and other classes of the high school, the new high school building and numerous other half tones will be used. A brief history of the Seymour schools will be published. This issue will also contain an account of the annual commencement exercises. Many persons may desire to purchase extra copies to send out of the city, and are requested to telephone before 10:00 o'clock Friday morning the number you wished reserved. There will be a large demand for these papers and we may not be able to fill the orders unless they are filed at this office in advance.

CONTRACTORS ASKING FOR INFORMATION ABOUT PLANS

Bids for Improvement of Ten Blocks Will be Received by the City Council Tonight.

With representatives of seven or eight contracting firms seeking information about the plans and specifications for the proposed new improved streets the office of City Engineer Douglass at the city building was a busy place today. The bids will be received by the council at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The contracts will not be awarded and the bids will be referred to the board of works before any of the work is awarded.

The specifications call for the improvement of Second street and of two blocks on South Chestnut street. Quite a number of contractors from out of the city are expected to file bids. Under the new state law the proposals cannot be filed prior to the council meeting and for that reason it is not known just how many bids will be received.

The council will convene at 7 o'clock tonight and will remain in session until 8 o'clock, adjourning in time to allow the members to attend the commencement exercises at the Majestic.

LANDED AT PUERTO MEXICO

Hamburg-American Vessels That Were Prevented From Landing Arms at Vera Cruz by the American Seizure of That Port, Slipped Down to Puerto Mexico and Delivered to Federals a Vast Quantity of War Material.

Vera Cruz, May 28.—The local agent of the Hamburg-American line very gleefully told of a smart trick whereby all danger of prosecution, he thinks, against the captains of the Bavaria or the Ypiranga was forestalled. The Mexican maritime law says that a ship may land its cargo at any port, no matter, where she may have cleared for, at the request of the consignees. The Mexican government is the consignee in both cases, and it requested that the consignments be landed at Puerto Mexico. To make assurance sure, the agents of the Huerta government shrewdly procured from Captain Stickney, captain of the port of Vera Cruz, the declaration in writing that the United States is administering under the Mexican law. That estops prosecution, says the Hamburg-American agent.

Washington, May 28.—Huerta has succeeded in obtaining for his forces several million rounds of ammunition and a large consignment of machine guns and rifles.

The Hamburg-American steamships Ypiranga and Bavaria have landed these cargoes of munitions at Puerto Mexico. The Ypiranga's cargo, estimated at about 15,000,000 rounds of ammunition and more than 200 machine guns, is the identical cargo that the United States held up through the seizure of Vera Cruz. In fact, the decision of the administration to move suddenly against Vera Cruz was reached solely because of the fact that the Ypiranga was about to land this big consignment of war supplies. The cargo of the Bavaria consisted of about a million rounds of ammunition and a large consignment of carbines.

Officials of both the state and navy departments when informed of these large additions to Huerta's war supplies, declared that the United States would have taken no steps to prevent their being landed, even if it had been notified beforehand that this was to be done. Officers of the state department said that the Hamburg-American line officials were clearly within their rights in landing their cargoes, and the only course this government could take to prevent the landing of the shipments would have been the seizure of Puerto Mexico. This would have constituted a violation of the armistice with Huerta and would have threatened the success of the mediation proceedings.

A Source of Embarrassment.

The United States was embarrassed too by the stand that it has taken in regard to the importation of arms at Tampico. This government had declared that it intended to keep Tampico an open port and that no step would be taken to prevent the exportation of arms from American ports to that city.

Germany, from the beginning, has shown the friendliest spirit toward the United States in the matter of this government's Mexican policy, and there is considerable doubt here as to whether the landing of the arms represented any change of attitude on Germany's part. Representatives of the German government in Washington had not heard of the landing of the war munitions, and plainly were considerably exercised over the developments.

The disposition in Washington was to regard the initiative in the present developments as coming entirely from the owners of the steamships, but it was acknowledged that the circumstances were peculiar enough to arouse some suspicion.

There was some talk here of the likelihood of an effort by the Constitutionalists to cut the railroad connection with Mexico City, but the chances of success in time to prevent the carrying of the war supplies to the capital seem slight.

Another ammunition ship is reported about to arrive at Salina Cruz. A ship with such a consignment left Japan about April 1 and should arrive within a few days at this port, which is at the Pacific end of the railroad across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. The principal concern felt by this government now is as to the possible effect of this replenishment of Huerta's war supplies will have on his ability to defend himself.

Ulsterites Hold Temper.

London, May 28.—The passing of the home rule bill has not yet led to the breaking of a single head in Ireland. The predictions made so freely by certain Unionists that its final adoption by the house of commons would be followed by fierce outbreaks in Ulster and sanguinary conflicts between the Orangemen and the Nationalists have proved to be untrue thus far.

Torreon, May 28.—Pancho Villa's army of nearly 22,000 men is moving southward on Zacatecas from Torreon and the federal garrison in that city will be attacked within five or six days. Villa himself has left Torreon for the south. Since Monday troop trains have been steaming out of Torreon loaded with infantry, cavalry and artillery. For days repair crews have been hard at work repairing the Central railway, and the line is now ready for traffic as far as Lacoradio, about two-thirds of the distance to Zacatecas. Every effort is being made to bar the federal avenue of escape southward.

MEDIATORS HAVE A WORKING PLAN

They Have Measured Sentiment of Delegates.

ARE NOW READY TO GO AHEAD

Whether it Will Prove Satisfactory as a Basis For the Adjustment of Differences Between This Country and Mexico Remains to Be Seen, but the South American Diplomats Seem Confident of Securing an Agreement.

Niagara Falls, May 28.—The mediation negotiations between Mexico and the United States are proceeding with all due formality. Justice Lamar said: "We are still very hopeful as to the ultimate success of the negotiations."

Washington, May 28.—Envoys Lamar and Lehmann have submitted to the state department outlines of the general plans of the mediators, based upon the conferences and interchanges of views thus far held at Niagara Falls looking to the complete settlement of all the points at issue in the general Mexican situation.

The fact that the plan is general in character, yet at the same time, covering all important angles of the vexed problem, was not officially made known here. Details are entirely lacking, and in the absence of details speculation has had opportunity to run riot. It is not regarded as likely that the report of the American envoys will be made public in its present form or in part for several days at least. It may be that the report as presented never will see the light of day. It is for the guidance of President Wilson and his advisers. Its receipt only sufficed to set at rest the repeated rumors that no chance exists for an agreement among the mediators and the Huerta and American delegates. Whether or not it has been submitted to the Constitutionalists as yet, or whether it will be submitted without further correction is unknown, but the fact remains that the Wilson administration now knows how far the mediators have been able to measure the sentiment of the delegates and the plan is ready for consideration, if nothing more.

HUERTA STILL ON THE JOB

Rumor of Old Dictator's Flight Utterly Unfounded.

Mexico City, May 28.—General Victoriano Huerta has not deserted his post as the head of the provisional government. Instead of showing added strain, General Huerta and his closest advisers appear to be in better spirits than they have been, as if a crisis were over. A spirit of confidence about internal and foreign affairs appears suddenly to have been engendered. Favorable reports of a battle won by General Zaragoza around the city of Tampico have been received. General Gustavo Maas has been holding the rebel advance in San Luis Potosi back. Mazatlan is standing firm and the word from Niagara Falls is most favorable, in the minds of the authorities.

BOOKS AND PAPERS OF J. P. MORGAN & CO.

Will Be Looked Over By Commerce Commission.

New York, May 28.—J. P. Morgan & Co.'s books and papers that relate in any way to the New York, New Haven and Hartford and its subsidiaries are to be examined by the interstate commerce commission. Experts of the commission began work on them today, and Mr. Morgan has assured Chief Counsel Folk of the commission that the investigators will not be restricted in any way in conducting their search.

The decision to open the books of the banking house was reached after Mr. Folk had been in conference for several hours with counsel for J. P. Morgan & Co. The offer to open the books was made by Mr. Morgan in his recent statement covering the recent testimony of Charles S. Mellen respecting his management of the New Haven railroad.

A difference of opinion developed as to the extent of the examination proposed to be made. It appeared that Mr. Morgan's offer was made with certain reservations that seemed to Mr. Folk to strike at the effectiveness of the inquiry, but Mr. Folk insisted that the examiners shall decide for themselves what books and papers in the possession of Mr. Morgan's firm relate to the New Haven and that the examination will be thorough.

The expert examiners believe that it will take six months to go over the books and papers. Mr. Folk said he knew nothing about the report from Washington that the administration is contemplating holding up the investigation of the New Haven by the interstate commerce commission in order to bring criminal actions before any more of those concerned receive immunity.

Woman Placed Jewels in Icebox and They Were Stolen.

South Bend, Ind., May 28.—The theft of $1,000 worth of jewelry from the home of John Weiss here last Friday became known for the first time, even to the owner of the gems, with the arrest of Frank Howard, a cook, at Michigan City. Howard was arrested on suspicion when he attempted to dispose of an attractive collection of rings, watch chains and the like, in a Michigan City pawn shop. He promptly confessed the gems, the property of Mrs. Weiss, were stolen from the icebox in the Weiss home. Mrs. Weiss had placed them there for protection, she thought, while engaged in house cleaning. Howard, in prowling about the house, came on the jewels accidentally.

W. W. CANADA, AMERICAN CONSUL, IS INDIANA MAN
United States Representative at Vera Cruz is Recognized as Leader in American Colony.

(By William G. Shepherd, United States Staff Correspondent.)
Vera Cruz, May 28—W. W. Canada, the American consul at Vera Cruz, whom Representative Mondell bitterly attacked in Congress on April 27th for sending alarming reports about the situation of Americans in Mexico, calculated to furnish reasons for intervention in Mexico, is an Indiana politician.

During his sixteen year stay in Vera Cruz he has absorbed something of the Mexican idea of officialdom and he has for many years been something of a ruler in the American colony in the city. There was never any gentleness about his rule, either; whenever he had anything to say to Americans he sent the information out in the form of orders.

"All Americans must positively leave Vera Cruz at once—W. W.
Canada," was a notice which he posted up about the streets of the city recently when he thought that the city might soon be crowded by refugees.

"Anybody who criticizes President Huerta in this office will be immediately removed," is another sign he once posted in the consulate.

When he was criticized for this on the grounds that it was a sign which might be seen in the office of any Mexican official, he changed the sign to include criticism of President Wilson.

"Mondell went after Bryan harder than he went after me," said Consul Canada, after he had read an American paper containing a report of Mondell's criticism. "You know somebody's always been after me, all my life."

"I was elected a judge in my own town three days before I was 21 years old and I've held political jobs ever since. Somebody's always been trying to get me, but I've always had little majorities in my favor. You know, back in Indiana, when I was a boy, I discovered that you always find the most clubs under the trees that have the best fruit, and a lot of clubs have been thrown at me."

About the first words the bootblacks of Vera Cruz learned from Americans were swear words. It is the custom of the little fellows to interrupt the conversations of plaza diners by offering their services or wares and not to depart until the diners order them to go with the word,
"vamoso."

When the soldiers came the pes-tilential little chaps very soon picked up the phrase "Get the hell out of here" and, within a few days, when a customer tried to tell them, in decent phrases, that they were not wanted, the boys, in departing would say "get the hell out of here," evidently thinking it meant "goodby."
"All right" was the phrase they picked up next.

"Maryland, My Maryland" of all the tunes which the American military bands played in the plaza, soon became the most popular among Mexi-cians. Mexico has its song crazes, just as the United States has and, at the time of the American invasion, Vera Cruz, Mexico City and other Mexican metropolises were mad about two new pieces "Marietta" and "Seraphina."

In Vera Cruz, however, "Maryland, My Maryland" soon took the place in popularity of the other two hits.
Small boys whistled it; it was played on pianos in private houses and Mexican orchestra leaders borrowed copies of it from the American band-men to reproduce with pen and ink for their players.

It is no uncommon sight, now, to see half a dozen orchestra men gathered around a pen and ink copy of "Maryland, My Maryland," all playing from the same sheet, and all playing well, to the delight of their hearers.

Returns from Lake County.

Crown Point, Ind., May 28—The official result of the canvass of the returns from the recent Lake County primary by the board of election commissioners reveals two interesting facts: First, the total Republican vote in the primary was larger than at first reported; second, the Progressive vote was smaller. The vote for the two Republican candidates for Prosecuting Attorney, J. M. Fox and J. H. Patterson, totals 6,396 votes, as against 5,950, the figure contained in the semi-official returns.
The highest vote cast for any candidate on the Progressive ticket was 668 votes for Otto J. Bruce. Only one other Progressive candidate ran over 600, and all the others dropped down to the neighborhood of 550.
These corrected figures show that the Republican vote in the primary was 23 per cent. larger than the vote cast for the Republican candidate for President in 1912, instead of 15 per cent greater, as indicated by the early returns. The Progressive vote shows a loss compared with the vote cast for President in this county in 1912 of 91 per cent instead of 88, as indicated by the early returns.

ST. LOUISIANS OPEN GREAT PAGEANT TODAY
Seven Thousand Persons Participate in Pretentious Production of Early History.

(By United Press.)
St. Louis, May 28—Thousands of persons gathered today in the natural amphitheater in Forest Park and witnessed the portrayal of the picturesque history of the city of St.
Louis by seven thousand St. Louisi-ans in what is said to be the largest pageant ever produced. The pageant and mask will be staged every day for the remainder of the month in order that all St. Louisians and the thousands of out-of-town visitors may see it. It's production next Sunday is for the benefit of those who cannot see it on work days.

Time and money were not spared in making it the most pretentious presentation of its kind ever attempted in this country. Percy MacKay and Thomas Woods Stevens, pageant masters have devoted more than six months to the mammoth production.
For the first time in years, the city became interested in its own history, and a movement was started to introduce a study of historic St. Louis in the Schools.

The opening scene represents the site of St. Louis as seen from the Illinois shore with the water between the audience and the stage on which mound builders are constructing a mound. They are interrupted by the arrival of hunters who display buffalo skins and call the men to the hunting. Despite the pleas of the priests the men left the mound unfinished and joined the hunt, the women following. Next appears the Indians, who set up their own wigwams. Rumors of war stir the village and the corn dance changes to a war dance.
The village is attacked and after being successfully defended the pipe of peace is smoked. In the distance appears a cavalcade of De Soto and his gold seekers of Spain of the sixteenth century. They set up a cross on the mound and return from whence they came while the Indian life continues undisturbed. Then Joliet and Pere Marquette pass down the river in their canoes marking the coming of the French.

Laclede and his stepson Auguste Chouteau at the beginning of the second movement of the pageant arrive. Laclede plans the town and Chouteau builds the first house with the aid of his men and Indian squaws.
Then follows the coming of the settlers and the troops under St. Angelo and a town begins to grow. Governor Piaras comes with the Spanish troops and flag establishing the Spanish regime. An Indian and British attack is successfully resisted. Singing of French revolutionary songs in the streets by the "Sans Culottes" is the next episode reflecting the struggle in France. The second movement ends with the transfer of the Louisiana Purchase, the day of three flags.
The Spanish governor proclaims the rule of Spain at an end, Major Stoddard takes over the post for France, and then proclaims the purchase, hoisting the American flag. Then, in the coming twilight is shown the arrival of the pioneers Lewis and Clark and Daniel Boone followed by the coming of the first steamboat, the General Pike. The dark years of the civil war are echoed, the pageant closing with the news of peace.

FOR PROSECUTING ATTORNEY.
We are authorized to announce the name of Marshall Woolery, of Bedford, as candidate for Prosecuting Attorney of the Fortieth Judicial Circuit, subject to the decision of the Republican judicial nominating convention.

OUR PARK.

We believe that the members of the committee appointed by Mayor Ross to co-operate with the council in improving the city park should be congratulated upon the interest they have already shown and trust that they will receive all assistance and support necessary in order that they may complete their plans. Our city park is one of the most beautiful in any city in southern Indiana but no systematic effort has even been made to popularize it, or to beautify the grounds. The failure to do so, however, is not because the citizens do not favor the plan but is due to the neglect or oversight of the past councils. It is true some money has been expended for this purpose during the last few years but for want of system the results are not apparent.

Many cities in Indiana have established public playgrounds and have found them to be very popular. Our park is ideally situated for a city playground and with the expenditure of a small sum adequate equipment could be purchased which would make it a very popular place with the children. It cannot be denied that in cities of this size a playground under the supervision of competent directors is greatly needed. It provides a place where children who might otherwise be compelled to play on the streets may find wholesome recreation and much enjoyment.

The special committee has also recommended that a landscape gardener be employed and that the grounds be beautified with flowers and shrubbery. With the amount available from the park fund it is not probable that this plan could be carried out in one, two or even three years' time but the committee, cognizant of this fact, suggests that a plan be adopted whereby a certain amount of additional work may be done each year. In this way the money that is expended goes towards the permanent improvement of the park and in the end the plan will be more economical and Seymour will have a city park second to none in southern Indiana.

DAIRIES IN STATE FOUND TO BE IN POOR CONDITION

Ninety-eight Visited by Inspectors in April and None Classed as Good or Excellent.

None of the ninety-eight dairies visited by inspectors of the state board of health in the month of April was found to be in first-class condition. Forty-six were classed as bad, thirty-four as poor and only eighteen as fair. None was classed as good or excellent.

The facts concerning dairies, as well as food and drug establishments of all kinds, are set out in the monthly report of inspectors to H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner. The six inspectors visited 927 places handling foods and drugs. Only ten of these establishments were classed as excellent, 438 places were found to be in good condition, 350 were classed as fair, sixty-nine as poor and 50 as bad.

A campaign for the improvement of dairies of the state will be waged by the inspectors throughout the summer.

Only eight of 350 groceries visited were found to meet all requirements. One hundred and eighty-five groceries were in good condition, 147 fair, nine poor and one bad. One of the 125 meat markets was rated excellent, seventy-seven good, forty-four fair and three poor. Fifty-one bakeries were classed good and fifty-one as fair. Of 101 hotels and restaurants, forty-two were rated good, sixty-one fair and eight poor.

Six prosecutions for violations of the weights and measures and pure food and drug acts were instituted. Most of them were based on the sale of misbranded articles.

Auto excursion starts from Public Service Monday at 5 p. m. Cars called for each trip. Tickets will be taken by lady conductors.

STATE WIDE ATTENTION CENTERED ON ARSON CASE

Sensational Testimony Given by Woman in Unusual Prosecution in Daviess County.

By United Press.

Washington, Ind., May 28—Probably the strongest array of legal talent that has been assembled in the trial of a case in the Daviess circuit court in years, was that engaged in the trial of Dr. Daniel V. Wolfe, Van Allen, Albert M. Perkins, all of Daviess county, and Perry Drake, of Sullivan county, jointly charged with conspiracy to swindle insurance companies. The trial is expected to end very soon.

Owing to the many sensational features of the case, coupled with the prominence of the defendants, the trial attracted attention far and wide. The indictment against the men was signed by William E. Longley, the state fire marshal after he had made careful investigation of the fire which destroyed the Allen stock barn, southeast of Washington, in February 1912. Insurance to the amount of $4,800 was carried on the barn and contents. Evidence introduced by the state in the trial was to the effect that defendants had planned the fire. That a short time before the blaze they had purchased cheap registered stallions for from $100 to $250, insured them for $800 each and kept them in the barn. Common horses were purchased on Jockey Alley in Terre Haute, and elsewhere for as low as $7 each, shipped here and unloaded at night and taken to the barn, according to witnesses. These were well insured, as were also wagons and farm implements and a registered bull.

The former housekeeper of Dr. Wolfe, Mrs. Anna Kutter, testified that the barn was set on fire by means of candles, which were timed by inches to burn a specified length of time. At the trial she testified that the doctor made a practice of insuring bulls for $500 each and then causing their death with some sort of "dope." He lost three bulls in this way in a single year, she said. Her testimony was sensational to the extreme, she testifying that she set fire to the doctor's home at his command. The home was insured.

Witnesses from all over Indiana, Illinois and some from Minnesota were called to testify concerning the sale of horses which were burned in the barn. Among the interesting witnesses from Illinois was Enos J. Gable, farmer and horseman from Flanagan who testified that Perkins and Wolfe suggested to him that they "pull off" a barn fire on his farm near Flanagan, Ill.

The trial started May 18, with Judge Jenley, of Bloomington, as special judge.

The high school Patriot has been placed on sale at Carter's Drug Store and at Miller's Book Store. The book is attractive and contains much information relative to the local schools. The drawings are exceptionally good and the book is well edited.

AGAIN THE STYLES CHANGE

The light attire of summer is now in order—the silks, the linens, and the lingerie supplant the heavy suits.

It is even time to think about the new fashions in bathing suits. How is one to keep posted on such vital news? The answer is right within the folds of this newspaper—in the advertising columns.

The stores interpret the new styles in merchandise and use their advertising to let the people know what they are doing.

The woman who is up to date is a close reader of advertising in these periods of style transition.

MRS. LOUISE HOUGHTON COMMENDS FARMERS' CLUB

Daughter of Civil Engineer for Whom Seymour Was Named Interested in New Plan.

Quite a number of notices have been received here from people more or less prominent in different walks of life, very commendatory of the proposition which is being carried out in connection with The Farmer's Club.

One of the most interesting comes from Mrs. Louise Seymour Houghton, a daughter of Henry C. Seymour, for whom this city was named by its founder, Captain Meedy W. Shields.

Mr. Seymour was a prominent civil engineer of his day, under whose supervision the old O. & M. Railroad between Cincinnati and St. Louis which is now a part of the great B. & O. system was laid out and constructed. There was great rivalry between different towns on the old J. M. & I. Railroad to secure the crossing point of the O. & M., as it was a foregone conclusion that this crossing point would grow into a thriving city. Captain Shields was busy with all the arguments he could command to secure the crossing here on his home farm. He made friends with the officials in charge and was particularly intimate with Colonel Seymour. One of the "bug-a-boos" of the Seymour route was the big fill across the marshy flat just west of town, but when Capt. Shields with a large force of men and his own mules completed this fill, in accordance with plans furnished by Colonel Seymour and presented it to the O. & M. people free of charge, the railroad crossing point was soon settled and Seymour secured a permanent place on the map.

Mrs. Houghton still lives in New York City at the ripe old age of seventy-five years but is hale and vigorous and takes great interest in current events. For fifteen years she was an associate editor on The New York Evangelist, a leading Presbyterian periodical. She is also a great story writer, being especially prolific in writing Tracts and Sabbath School literature. Right now she is engaged in compiling "A History of the French in America." This requires great research and an immense amount of labor in consulting records, making translations, etc. She has made several trips abroad and right now is contemplating a visit to Southern France to look up records of the old Huguenots which she herself reads in the original. Few are sufficiently gifted to take up a work of this kind and when it is realized that Mrs. Houghton is seventy-five years of age and still able to undertake such onerous labor one is struck with admiration of her wonderful attainments and the virile stock from which she sprang.

It is in the range of possibilities that Mrs. Houghton may be present at the dedicatory exercise of The Farmers' Club as she takes a keen interest in all such matters, but has a special liking for the proposed Farmer's Club because of its association with her father, Henry C. Seymour, and his friend, Captain Shields.

As the base ball grounds on North Ewing street have been placed under the direction of the high school athletic association for the use of the high school teams alone other teams cannot be permitted the use of the grounds. The high school has gone to considerable expense in making the diamonds and notice is given that it has the exclusive right of the grounds.

WARNING AGAINST "FAKE" HOG CHOLERA CURE

Government Has Not Approved Any Treatment Except the Protective Serum.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—Evidence of what appears to be a well organized campaign to delude farmers throughout the country into buying an alleged cure for hog cholera, under the impression that this has been investigated and approved by the United States Government, has reached the Department of Agriculture. Articles praising this medicine, Benetol by name, are being sent out widespread to newspapers. These articles are so worded that it appears as if the Department of Agriculture had received reports from the state of Minnesota showing that the medicine had proved most beneficial. As a matter of fact the one report received by the Department was an official and unsolicited statement sent presumably from the promoters themselves. The Department attaches no importance whatsoever to this statement. It has no reason to believe in the efficiency of any proprietary cure for hog cholera and does not recommend any. Under certain conditions it urges farmers to protect their stock with anti-hog-cholera serum but that is all.

In connection with this attempt it may be said that the medicine, which is now put forward as good for hogs, was advertised some time ago as a means of killing tuberculosis, typhoid and cancer germs, according to an article published in the Journal of the American Medical Association. At that time it was asserted that the Army was interested in it. As a matter of fact the Army was no more interested then than the Department of Agriculture is now.

In view of the evidence that the attempt to create this false impression is persistent and widespread, all hog owners are warned to communicate with the United States authorities before accepting as true any statement that the Government recommends any treatment other than the serum already mentioned.

COL. ROOSEVELT'S STORY OF HIS LAST GREAT ADVENTURE

Queer Animals Described by Returned Explorer of the Brazilian Wilds.

Truculent Little Peccaries, Wasps That Prey and Formidable Spiders.

WITH the return of Colonel Roosevelt after seven months spent in the wilds of South America public interest in the former president is divided between the stories of the thrilling adventures he encountered and conjecture as to his future political activities. The big question which he has not answered is, Will he run for the presidency in 1916? Another element of interest attaching to the colonel's return is the wedding of his son Kermit, who shared the perils of the Brazilian wilderness with his father. Kermit is to marry Miss Belle Wyatt Willard, daughter of Colonel J. E. Willard, American ambassador to Spain, in Madrid on June 11.

Getting back to the United States the last of June, Colonel Roosevelt may start in September on a transcontinental stumping tour. This plan is contingent upon his health.

That the South American jungle trip is the last big adventure afield contemplated by Colonel Roosevelt he does not deny. "I went the ultimate," was his expression for the long odds halt the journey until he was better "I can't do it," was the undaunted reply. "I'll go as far as I can, and when I am unable to proceed farther I'll stay right there and fight it out alone." That night the colonel was in a critical state. "If I'm to go it's all right," he told the party's doctor, "but see that the others don't stop for me." However, he got better in the night and the next morning was past the crisis. "Knew I'd make it," he said, grinning.

[From Colonel Roosevelt's third article describing his journey in the Brazilian wilderness in Scribner's Magazine for June, 1914. Copyright, 1914, by Charles Scribner's Sons.]

WE had been out about three hours when one of the dogs gave tongue in a large belt of wood land and jungle to the left of our line of march through the marsh. The other dogs ran to the sound, and after awhile the long barking told that the thing, whatever it was, was at bay or else in some refuge. We made our way toward the place on foot. The dogs were baying excitedly at the mouth of a huge hollow log, and a very short explains diversity in the traits by which nature achieves the perpetuation of species. Among the warrior and predaceous insects the prowess is in some cases of such type as to render the possessor practically immune from danger. In other cases the condition of its exercise may normally be the sacrifice of the life of the possessor.

Fighting Spiders.

There are wasps that prey and formidable fighting spiders, which yet instinctively so handle themselves that the prey practically never succeeds in either defending itself or retaliating, being captured and paralyzed with unerring efficiency and with entire security to the wasp. The wasp's safety is absolute.

On the other hand, these fighting ants, including the soldiers even among the termites, are frantically eager for a success which generally means their annihilation; the condition of their efficiency is absolute indifference to their own security. Probably the majority of the ants that actually lay hold on a foe suffer death in consequence; certainly they not merely run the risk of but eagerly invite death.

Odd Animals of Brazil.

Cherrie and Miller had secured a little owl in the chaco, and it was traveling with them in a basket. It was a dear little bird, very tame and affectionate. It liked to be handled and petted, and when Miller, its especial protector, came into the cabin it would make queer little noises as a signal that it wished to be taken up and perched on his hand.

Cherrie and Miller had trapped many mammals. Among them was a tayra weasel, whitish above and black below, as big and bloodthirsty as a fisher martin, and a tiny opossum no bigger than a mouse. They had taken four species of opossum, but they had not found the curious water opossum which they had obtained on the rivers flowing into the Caribbean sea.

This opossum, which is black and white, swims in the streams like a muskrat or otter, catching fish and living in burrows which open under water. Miller and Cherrie were puzzled to know why the young thrive, leading such an existence of constant immersion. One of them once found a female swimming and diving freely with four quite well grown young in her pouch.

Queer Looking Birds.

We saw on the banks screamers—big, crested waders of archaic type, with spurred wings, rather short bills and no especial affinities with other modern birds. In one meadow by a pond we saw three marsh deer, a buck and two does. They stared at us with their thickly haired tails raised on end. These tails are black underneath instead of white as in our white tail deer.

One of the vagaries of the ultra concealing colorationists has been to uphold the (incidentally quite preposterous) theory that the tail of our deer is colored white beneath so as to harmonize with the sky and thereby mislead the cougar or wolf at the critical moment when it makes its spring, but this marsh deer shows a black instead of a white flag, and yet has just as much need of protection from its enemies, the jaguar and the cougar.

Wonderful Work of Quarantine Station In the Mississippi.

IS LARGEST IN THE WORLD.

Means by Which It Combats Worst Feared Plagues and Fevers Furnish Striking Illustration of the Achievements of Modern Science—Unique Map an Aid to Doctors.

One result of the taking and occupation of the port of Vera Cruz, Mexico, by the American forces has been to draw attention to the fact that the United States has the most complete and largest quarantine station of any country in the world. It is located in the Mississippi river and is known as the New Orleans quarantine station, although it is in fact ninety-one miles below New Orleans. It is described by Wingrove Bathon in the Washington Star.

Here there is a plant estimated by Surgeon G. M. Corput, United States public health service, who is in charge, to be worth about $200,000.

Over the desk of Surgeon Corput in the administration building of the station there is a huge map of the world, showing every port, and into the spaces indicated by the names of these ports on this great map are stuck pins with colored heads, each indicating one of the terrible diseases which modern science has learned to prevent and in many cases to conquer. There is a pin of one color for cholera, another for leprosy, another for plague, another for smallpox, another for typhus fever and still another for yellow fever. The latter, "Yellow Jack," as it was formerly styled in whiskeys in and around New Orleans, no longer carries with it to the men of the public health service the fear its name once aroused, for, as Surgeon Corput put it, "Yellow fever in the temperate zones does not frighten us much."

Why Yellow Fever Kills So Many. "If I can get hold of yellow fever the first day," he said, "I can save all but about 2 per cent of the cases. Neglect has always been the cause of most of the deaths in yellow fever cases."

At Aguascalientes, Mexico, several years ago there were at one time 30,000 cases of smallpox out of a population of about 60,000. Deaths were at the rate of 600 or 700 a day.

In recent months there have been no great outbreaks of this or any other quarantinable disease in these Mexican cities, so far as reported, but in these cities there are always sporadic cases. In Vera Cruz when the correspondent left that port numbers of patients were being taken to the hospitals each day suffering with smallpox. The Mexican people think no more of having smallpox than the American at home does of being laid up with a heavy cold.

The idea of the quarantine station, of course, is to "net" passengers coming up from South and Central America or Cuba with any of these quarantinable diseases, to isolate them, to cure them and, above all, to prevent them from communicating their disease to other passengers on the ships or from taking it into the United States.

Except for the want of something to do to occupy the time the Mississippi river quarantine station is a pleasant enough place, at least during the day. At night life is more exciting, for then begins a struggle for existence, which resolves itself into a battle royal between mosquitoes (which some people say are of the size of canary birds) and human beings, which often literally leaves the humans gasping for breath after their exertions.

Mosquito Proof Tents.

This mosquito pest has made necessary the building at the quarantine station during the rush of refugees of what are called "buglar proof tents." These tents are completely screened with wire from their wooden floors to their canvas tops. Entrance is through a screen door. The tents are laid out in "company streets," as at a military encampment, and water has been piped to the end of each short street. Each tent is equipped with four cots, wash bowls and pitchers and stools. A family consisting of a mother, father and two or three children is given a tent to itself. If there are four young men, not otherwise attached, they are given a tent to themselves, or if there are four unattached women or girls they are given a tent to themselves. There is a male and a female section.

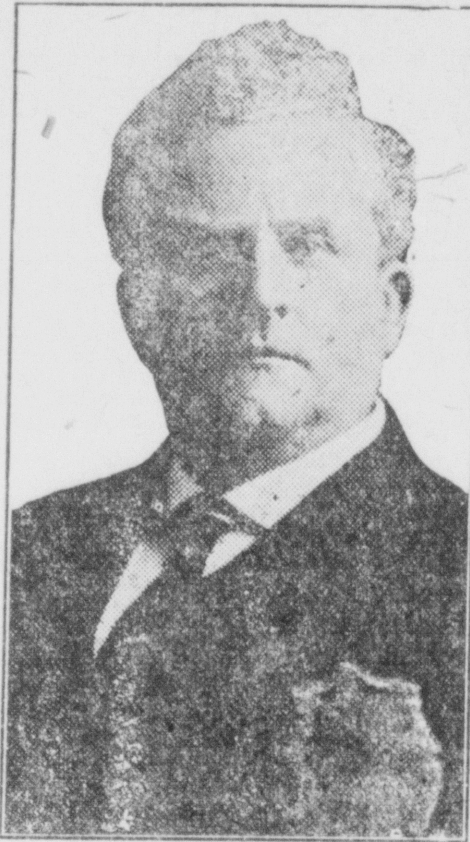

The New Orleans quarantine station was established at its present site by the state of Louisiana in 1888 and was then known as the Mississippi river quarantine station. In 1910 title passed to the United States.

Prizes For Humane Traps.

A movement for the invention of traps which will kill wild animals instantly and humanely is indorsed in a bulletin issued by the American Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. An article in the bulletin suggests the starting of a fund to provide a reward to the inventor of a humane trap and popularize the adoption of similar traps in the trapping industry.

DR. URRUTIA LOUD IN HIS DENUNCIATIONS

Former Mexican Minister Condemns Huerta.

Galveston, Tex., May 28.—That the Mexican government under Huerta is bad to the core; that it is maintained on the basis of murder, arson and fear; that Huerta must flee from the country; that the Constitutionists can maintain no better government and that the United States eventually must establish or countenance the establishment of a stable form of government in her sister republic, was the statement made by Dr. Aureliano Urrutia, ex-minister of the interior to Provisional President Huerta, who fled the Mexican capital and arrived here on the navy transport Hancock.

"I owe my life and the lives of my loved ones to General Funston at Vera Cruz," said the physician. "I fled from the City of Mexico when I learned that Huerta had ordered me arrested and executed on sight because I had refused to carry out some of his diabolical plots or to assist him in furthering the infamous plots for which he is known."

BELL RECEIVES JUDGMENT

Indianapolis Mayor Wins Verdict in Big Fee Case.

Bluffton, Ind., May 28.—A jury gave Mayor Bell of Indianapolis a verdict for $22,000 for attorney's fees and interest in his suit against James I. Houston of Grant county. The verdict exonerated Mayor Bell from the charge of lobbying in the 1911 session of the Indiana legislature for a bill permitting the state of Indiana to be named defendant in suits to contest wills. The contention of the defendant was that the contract for the fee was illegal because the real consideration was for lobbying, an illegal act.

COURT ERRED IN THE KAHN CASE

Arson Defendant Has Been Granted New Trial.

LOWER COURT IS REVERSED

State Supreme Court Holds That the Trial Court Was in Error in Permitting the State to Introduce Evidence of Other Fires Than the One Which Ben Kahn of South Bend Was Charged With Having Started.

Indianapolis, May 28.—The supreme court, in reversing a judgment of the St. Joseph circuit court, has granted a new trial to Ben Kahn of South Bend, who was convicted of arson. The supreme court held that it was an error to permit the state to introduce evidence of other fires than the one which he was charged with having started.

"Other crimes than the one for which the defendant is upon trial are never permitted to be shown to prove the fact that a crime has been committed," read the supreme court's opinion.

"Before the proof of other fires is admissible it must be established that the previous fire was incendiary, and then only after evidence has been introduced showing that the defendant set the fire in question."

Kahn has been out on bond pending the decision of the supreme court.

CRASH ON WABASH BRIDGE

Freight Train Dashes Into Work Train With Deadly Result.

Delphi, Ind., May 28.—One person was killed and several injured, one probably fatally, when a Wabash freight train crashed head-on into a work train on the Deer Creek bridge just west of this city. Alva Dills of Defiance, O., foreman of the work train, was killed instantly. Jacob Wendell of Port Wayne, a bridge foreman, suffered injuries which probably will cause his death.

The work crew had been engaged in repairing the bridge and roadbed near the scene of the wreck when east-bound freight engine No. 82 collided head-on with the standing train. The engine and several cars of the freight fell through the bridge to the creek, forty feet below. Engineer Harry Neil and Fireman Carl escaped death by jumping from the cab and were injured slightly about their heads.

Will Not Face Disbarment.

South Bend, Ind., May 28.—Rather than face disbarment proceedings, Charles A. Davey, convicted in the federal court at Indianapolis for obstructing justice and sentenced to the St. Joseph county jail for a year, filed application to withdraw from the practice of law. President Wilson recently refused to pardon him.

he had faced. "I knew that I was getting to the age when if I was to do anything requiring any unusual physical exertion I must do it now. In fact, I was just a little over the age. But I put it through."

Newspaper men to whom he said this were quick to observe that, while the colonel showed the results of extreme physical hardships, these had failed to affect the spirit of Roosevelt strenuousness. This fact was shown in hand clasp, speech and manner, and notably so when the colonel announced in vigorous words that in his address before the National Geographic society in Washington he would be prepared to refute statements by A. Henry Savage Landor and others that he had not really discovered a new river in South America.

Thrilling encounters with savage beasts, deprivations and hardships which many a man would not live through, were the lot of the former president in his trip of exploration and collection of specimens in a vast territory unfrequented by man. Added to these was the ever present menace of deadly tropical fevers. The fever got the colonel finally, and for a time, so it was learned after he had left the wilderness far behind him, his life was despaired of. There was one day during the expedition's fight with death that was very tragic. This was while the party was working its way through the jungle that fringed the Durida river (the River of Doubt). Colonel Roosevelt had felt the strain for days. On April 26 the fever attacked him. Yet he staggered on. That night he was delirious. At daybreak the fever had abated, and the colonel insisted upon continuing the trip. For days the party had been on half rations. "We can't stop now," said Roosevelt. "If we don't go on we'll all die here." And so they did. That day and the next Colonel Roosevelt suffered terribly. On the third day Kermit begged him to amination showed us that there were two peccaries within, doubtless a boar and sow.

However, just at this moment the peccaries bolted from an unsuspected opening at the other end of the log, dived into the tangle and instantly disappeared with the hounds in full cry after them.

A Fierce Little Beast.

It was twenty minutes later before we again heard the pack baying. With much difficulty and by the incessant swinging of the machetes we opened a trail through the network of vines and branches. This time there was only one peccary, the boar. He was at bay in a half hollow stump. The dogs were about his head, raving with excitement, and it was not possible to use the rifle, so I borrowed the spear of Doutor Joao the younger and killed the fierce little boar therewith.

This was a collared peccary, smaller and less fierce than its white lipped kinsfolk. It is a valliant and truculent little beast, nevertheless, and if given the chance will bite a piece the size of a teacup out of either man or dog. It is found singly or in small parties, feeds on roots, fruits, grass and sometimes snakes and insects and delights to make its home in hollow logs. If taken young it makes an affectionate and entertaining pet. When the two were in the hollow log we heard them utter a kind of moaning or menacing grunt, long drawn.

Biting Jungle Insects.

The fire ants, of which I have spoken, are generally found on a species of small tree or sapling with a greenish trunk. They bend the whole body as they bite, the tail and head being thrust downward. A few seconds after the bite the poison causes considerable pain; later it may make a tiny festering sore. There is certainly the most extraordi-

CHAPTER XVII. At the Brick Store.

THERE were two grand places for gossip in the community, the old tavern on the Edgewood side of the bridge and the brick store in Riverboro. The company at the Edgewood tavern would be a trifle different in character, more picturesque, imposing and eclectic because of the transient guests that gave it change and variety. Here might be found a judge or a lawyer on his way to court, a sheriff with a handcuffed prisoner, a farmer or two stopping on the road to market with a cartful of produce and an occasional teamster, peddler and stage driver. On winter nights champion story tellers like Jed Morrill and Rish Bixby would drop in there and hang their woolen neck comforters on the pegs along the wall side, where there were already hats, topcoats and fur mufflers, as well as stacks of whips, canes and oxcords standing in the corners. They would then enter the room, rubbing their hands genially and, nodding to Companion Pike, Cephas Cole, Phil Perry and others, ensconce themselves snugly in the group by the great open fireplace. The landlord was always glad to see them enter, for their stories, though old to him, were new to many of the assembled company and had a remarkable effect on the consumption of liquid refreshment.

On summer evenings gossip was languid in the village, and if any occurred at all it would be on the loafers' bench at one or the other side of the bridge. When cooler weather came the group of local wits gathered in Riverboro, either at Uncle Bart's joiner's shop or at the brick store, according to fancy. The latter place was perhaps the favorite for Riverboro talkers. It was a large, two story, square brick building, with a big mouthed chimney and an open fire. When every house in the two villages had six feet of snow around it roads would always be broken to the brick store, and a crowd of ten or fifteen men would be gathered there talking, listening, betting, smoking, chewing, bragging, playing checkers, singing and "swapping stories."

Some of the men had been through the war of 1812 and could display wounds received on the field of valor, others were still prouder of scars won in encounters with the Indians and there was one old codger, a revolutionary veteran, Bill Dunham by name, who would add bloody tales of his encounters with the "Husshons."

"Tis an awful sin to have on your soul," Bill would say from his place in a dark corner, where he would sit with his hat pulled over his eyes till the psychological moment came for the "Husshons" to be trotted out. "Tis an awful sin to have on your soul—the excommunication of a race o' men, even if they wa'n't nothin' more'n so many ignorant cacklers. Them was the great days for fightin'! The Husshons was the biggest men I ever seen on the field, most o' 'em standin' six feet eight in their stockin's—but Lord! how we walloped 'em! Once we had a cannon mounted an' loaded for 'em that was so large we had to draw the ball into it with a yoke of oxen!"

Bill paused from force of habit, just as he had paused for the last twenty years. There had been times when roars of incredulous laughter had greeted this boast, but most of this particular group had heard the yarn more than once and let it pass with a smile and a wink, remembering the night that Abel Day had asked old Bill how they got the oxen out of the cannon on that most memorable occasion. "Oh," said Bill, "that was easy enough. We jest unyoked 'em an' turned 'em out o' the primin' hole!"

It was only early October, but there had been a killing frost, and Ezra Simms, who kept the brick store, flung some shavings and small wood on the hearth and lighted a blaze, just to induce a little trade and start conversation on what threatened to be a dull evening. Peter Morrill, Jed's eldest brother, had lately returned from a long trip through the state and into New Hampshire and his adventures by field and flood were always worth listening to. He went about the country mending clocks and so many an old timepiece still bears his name, with the date of repairing written in pencil on the inside of the door.

There was never any lack of subjects at the brick store, the idiosyncrasies of the neighbors being the most prolific source of anecdote and comment. Whenever all else failed there was always the latest story of Deacon Baxter's parsimony, in which the village traced the influence of heredity. "He can't hardly help it, inheritin' it on both sides," was Abel Day's opinion. "The Baxters was allers snug from time memorial, and Foxy's the suggest o' 'em. When I look at his ugly mug an' hear his snarl'n' voice I thinks to myself, 'he's goin' the same way his father did. When old Levi Baxter was left a widder man in that house o' his'n up river he grew wuss an' wuss, if you remember, till he wa'n't hardly human at the last, and I don't believe Foxy even went up to his own father's funeral." "Twould 'a' served old Levi right if nobody else had gone," said Rish Bixby. "When his wife died he refused to come into the house till the last minute. He stayed to work in the barn till all the folks had assembled and even the men were all settin' down on benches in the kitchen. The parson sent me out for him, and I'm blest if the old skunk didn't come in through the crowd with his sleeves rolled up—went to the sink and washed, and then set down in the room where the coffin was, as cool as a cucumber." "I remember that funeral well," corroborated Abel Day. "An' Mis' Day heard Levi say to his daughter, as soon as they'd put poor old Mrs. Baxter int' the grave, 'Come on, Marthy; there's no use cryin' over spilt milk; we'd better go home an' husk out the rest o' that corn.' Old Foxy could have inherited plenty o' meanness from his father, that's certain, an' he's added to his inheritance right along, like the thrifty man he is. I hate to think o' them two fine girls wearin' their fin'gers to the bone for his benefit."

"Oh, well, 'twon't last forever," said Rish Bixby. "They're the handsomest couple o' girls on the river, an' they'll get husbands afore many years. Patience'll have one pretty soon, by the looks. She never budes an inch but Mark Wilson or Phil Perry are follerin' behind, with Cephas Cole watchin' his chance right along too. Waitstill don't seem to have no beaux; what with flyin' around to keep up with the deacon an' bein' a mother to Patience, her hands is full, I guess."

"I remember that funeral well."

"If things was a little mite dif'rent all round I could prognosticate what Waitstill could keep house for," was Peter Morrill's opinion.

"You mean Ivory Boynton? Well, if the deacon was asked he'd never give his consent, that's certain. An' Ivory ain't in no position to keep a wife anyway. What was it you heard 'bout Aaron Boynton up to New Hampshire, Peter?" asked Abel Day.

"Consid'able, one way an' another, an' none of it would 'a' been any comfort to Ivory. I guess Aaron 'n' Jake Cochran was both o' 'em more interested in savin' the sisters' souls than the brothers'. Aaron was a fine appearin' man, and so was Jake for that matter, 'n' they both had the gift o' gab. There's nothin' like a limber tongue if you want to please the women folks. If report says true, Aaron died of a fever out in Ohio somewhere. Cortland's the place, I believe. Seems 's if he hid his trail all the way from New Hampshire somehow, for as a usual thing a man o' book learnin' like him would be remembered wherever he went. Wouldn't you call Aaron Boynton a turrible farned man, Timothy?"

Timothy Grant, the parish clerk, had just entered the store on an errand; but, being directly addressed and judging that the subject under discussion was a discreet one and that it was too early in the evening for drinking to begin, he joined the group by the fireside. He had preached in Vermont for several years as an itinerant Methodist minister before settling down to farming in Edgewood, only giving up his profession because his quiver was so full of little Grants that a wandering life was difficult and undesirable. When Uncle Bart Cole had remarked that Mis' Grant had a little of everything in the way of baby stock now—black, red an' yaller haired, dark and light complected, fat an' lean, tall an' short, twins an' singles—Jed Morrill had observed dryly, "Yes, Mis' Grant kind o' reminds me of charity."

"How's that?" inquired Uncle Bart. "She beareth all things," chuckled Jed.

"Aaron Boynton was indeed a man of most adhesive larnin'," agreed Timothy, who had the reputation of the largest and most unusual vocabulary in Edgewood. "Next to Jacob Cochran I should say Aaron had more grandeloquence as an orator than any man we've ever had in these parts. It don't seem 's if Ivory was goin' to take after his father that way. The little feller, now, is smart 's a whip an' could talk the tail off a brass monkey."

"Yes, but Rodman ain't no kin to the Boyntons," Abel reminded him. "He inhails from the other side o' the house."

"That's so. Well, Ivory does for certain, an' takes after his mother, right enough, for she hain't spoken a dozen words in as many years. I guess Ivory's got a sight o' book knowledge, though, an' they do say he could talk Greek an' Latin both, if we had any o' 'em in the community to converse with,

FLARE YOU MUST FROM COLLAR TO HEM

The flare is a settled matter this spring; it appears in details, collar, sleeve, girdle and hem. Small coats have wide, flaring collars, and peplums; skirts flare from waistline to hem. For the heavier fabrics, such as gabardine, serge, or cloth the tiered effects are popular and offer the edges are bound with braid or bias bands of a contrasting material. An extremely smart little coat is combined in '8345-8346 with a tiered skirt in which there is a flounce and three tunic sections. The suit is developed in dark blue gabardine and the tiers are bound with satin; collar and cuffs are also of satin. A novel touch is given by the tasselled cord which serves to close the coat. This suit may be copied in size 36 with 2 1/4 yards of 36-inch material for the coat (8345) and 4 3/4 yards of the same width for the skirt (8346). Outing coats for the little maid take on the same lines as those of her grown up sister; the raglan shoulder, patch pockets and the flare at the bottom. This one, 8371, is made up in a scarlet novelty stuff with collar, cuffs and pockets of bright green; the buttons are a colored bone. For a girl of eight, this coat requires 1 1/2 yards of 36-inch material. No. 8345—sizes 34 to 42. No. 8346—sizes 22 to 30. No. 8371—sizes 4 to 14. Each pattern 15 cents.

I've never paid no intention to the dead languages, bein' so ockerpied with other studies."

"Why do they call 'em the dead languages, Tim?" asked Rish Bixby.

"Because all them that ever spoke 'em has perished off the face o' the land," Timothy answered oracularly. "Dead an' gone they be, lock, stock and barrel; yet there was a time when Latin an' Crustaceans, an' Hebrews an' Prooshians an' Australians an' Simmesians was chatterin' away in their own tongues, an' so powful that they was wallopin' the whole earth, you might say."

"I bet yer they never tried to wallop these here United States," interpolated Bill Dunham from the dark corner by the molasses hoghead.

"Is Ivory in here?" The door opened and Rodman Boynton appeared on the threshold.

"No, sonny, Ivory ain't been in this evenin'," replied Ezra Simms. "I hope there ain't nothin' the matter over to your house?"

"No, nothing particular," the boy answered, "only Aunt Boynton don't seem so well as common, and I can't find Ivory anywhere."

"Come along with me, I'll help you look for him, an' then I'll go as far as the lane with yer if we don't find him." And kindly Rish Bixby took the boy's hand and left the store.

"Mis' Boynton's had a spell, I guess," suggested the storekeeper, peering through the door into the darkness. "Tain't like Ivory to be out nights and leave her to Rod."

"She don't have no spells," said Abel Day. "Uncle Bart sees consid'able of Ivory, an' he says his mother is as quiet as a lamb. Couldn't you git no kind of a certificate of Aaron's death out o' that Enfield feller, Peter? Seems 's if that poor woman oughter be stopped watchin' for a dead man; tucker in' herself all out an' keepin' Ivory an' the boy all nerved up."

"I've told Ivory everything I could gather up in the way of information and give him the names of the folks in Ohio that had writ back to New Hampshire. I didn't dilate on Aaron's goin's on in Edingham and Portsmouth, 'cause I dassy 'twas nothin' but scandal. Them as hates the Cochranites I'll never allow there's any good in 'em, whereas I've met some as is servin' the Lord good an' constant an' indulgin' in no kind of foolishness an' deviltry whatsoever."

"Speakin' o' Husshons," said Bill Dunham from his corner, "I remember—"

"We wa'n't alludin' to no Husshons," retorted Timothy Grant. "We was dealin' with the misfortunes of Aaron Boynton, who never fit valorously on the field o' battle, but perished out in Ohio of scarlet fever, if what they say in Enfield is true."

"Tis an easy death," remarked Bill argumentatively. "Scarlet fever don't seem like nothin' to me! Many's the time I've been close enough to fire at the eyeball of a Husshon an' run the risk o' bein' blown to smithereens!"

"Speakin' of easy death," continued Timothy, "you know I'm a great one for words, bein' something of a scholar in my small way. Mebbe you noticed that Elder Boone used a strange word in his sermon last Sunday? Words air curious things sometimes,

Queer Things That Turn Up In the News

Prints of a wooden leg outside a store at Millville, N. Y., led to the arrest of Robert Garrison, a cripple, on a charge of robbery.

Mrs. Patrick McNulty of Yonkers, N. Y., who outweighs her husband two to one, hit him in court when he found fault with her housekeeping.

Mother Blackbird, guarding a nest in thicket, seeing miniature aeroplane flying at Clifton, N. J., attacked it fiercely, narrowly missing propeller.

Appendix of Frank Davis of Mount Hope, N. Y., removed ten years ago, grew again and had to be cut out a second time to save his life in another operation.

The Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. expects its roomers will marry after a residence there of two years. Secretary Willis says the association will not run bachelor apartments.

TELLS HOW TO DESTROY THE MOSQUITO CROP.

Female of Species Does All the Biting, Says University Biologist.

"Among mosquitoes the members of the fall sex are fierce bloodsuckers, which inject an irritating poison into our skins, and they may accompany the dose of toxin with a few fever germs." The males lead a comparatively tame existence, subsisting on the juices of plants and fruits. So says a member of the University of Wisconsin biology department.

"The female mosquito gorges herself with blood in order that the eggs may have abundant nourishment. She deposits her little egg raft on the surface of quiet water during the night, and it floats there until the larvae hatch. The larvae are the 'wigglers' or 'wiggle tails' which are seen in ponds and rain water barrels the world over. Though mosquito larvae always develop in water, they must breathe air and frequently come to the surface. After a few days the larva sheds its skin and becomes a big headed pupa, which rests at the surface until it splits up the back to allow the adult mosquito to emerge. This emerging business is a delicate operation which cannot be carried out successfully during windy weather. That is one reason why there are more mosquitoes on quiet evenings."

"The best way to get rid of mosquitoes is to destroy their breeding places, for the adults never fly far. This not only means draining swamps and filling in ponds, but gathering up tomato cans, putting netting over horse troughs and rainwater barrels and watching the eave troughs. If it is impossible to get rid of standing water near your premises oil placed on ponds will kill the larvae when they come up to breathe. Kerosene or any light fuel oil will serve for this purpose. About one ounce of oil will cover fifteen square feet. Applications should be made once a week."

CHICAGO'S "CENSUSETTES."

Adventures They Encounter Add Zest to Their Job.

Chicago's speediest school census takers are an eighteen-year-old girl who hops gates and fences and a married woman who "flips" freight trains, according to Stephen A. Ball, a supervisor of the census now under way, in which women are taking leading parts.

The girl mentioned is Miss Catherine Thomas. She is athletic, and obstacles such as high fences and gates do not prevent her from taking advantage of every possible short cut.

The fearless train rider is Mrs. Lilian Bokes. In order to avoid crossing a swamp she "flipped" a moving freight train on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway and rode several blocks, gaining the plaudits of track laborers and the station agent at Gresham.

In the list of experiences encountered by women census takers these are reported by M. T. Canary, an enumerator in the Ninth ward:

Mrs. Crystal Hixson was chased by a water snake she believed to be several feet long while making a short cut through a swampy field. The actual length of the snake is believed to be less than one foot.

Mrs. Norah Hardy was pursued by a large Brahma rooster when she approached a dwelling with a barnyard near by. She ran to a lampost with the intention of shunning it, but the rooster withdrew, evidently on the theory that his attack was merely one of peaceful reprisal.

Mrs. Nellie MacMahon discovered in Mrs. Smoak a schoolmate of thirty years ago.

A BIRD OF A STORY.

Michael Debold of Gary, Ind., left a soot choked stovepipe on his lawn. A curious white pigeon flew into the pipe. His plumage was blackened. When he went home his immaculate mates, thinking possibly he was a crow, killed him. Then a rain came and washed the stained feathers white. Thereupon the other pigeons, of course, showed great grief over their tragic mistake.

DRS. RADER and RADER
RETURN TO SEYMOUR

We are pleased to welcome the return of Drs. Rader and Rader to Seymour where they practiced for a year and returned to the Parent School of Osteopathy at Kirksville, and completed their three years' course. Among the professional life of Seymour none stood higher than Drs. Rader and Rader.

They need no introduction to the people of this community where their praiseworthy work is evidenced by kindly expressions of all who were handicapped with ill health and came under their skillful treatment. They have risen steadily in their chosen profession and hold the confidence and esteem of everyone.

Their wide experience and splendid ability as associates with Dr. Spaunhurst commend them to those who suffer and are not improving under present treatment. Seymour is to be congratulated on the return of these skillful physicians and high class citizens.

The Cricket's Chirp.

The variation of speed in the chirping of crickets depends so closely on temperature that the height of the thermometer may be calculated by observing the number of chirps in a minute. At 60 degrees F. the rate is eighty chirps a minute, at 70 degrees F. 120 per minute, and the rate increases four chirps to the minute with a change of one degree. Below a temperature of 50 degrees F. the cricket is not likely to make any sound.—Exchange.

EPIGRAMS BY A FORMER RAILROAD PRESIDENT.

The following striking sentences are from the testimony of Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven railroad, before the interstate commerce commission:

The great force in the world is brains. Mr. Morgan had them.

I had more bosses when I was getting $60,000 a year as president of the New Haven than when I was getting $50 a month as a clerk.

The higher a man gets in this world the more bosses he has. Everybody who has authority is a boss.

I think that government control of railroads is sure to come.

They have an odd expression which I think fits Mr. Morgan's case: "Where MacGregor sits is the head of the table." He was MacGregor.

I am a poorer man today, than I was when I first became president of the New Haven.

Gratitude is a lively expectation of favors yet to come.

We were looking for a lightning rod to shy away the knocks.

I was never reimbursed by the New Haven for any political contribution made by me. No one even said "Thank you."

My salary was raised from $50,000 to $60,000 a year in the face of my personal protest. But I took the money because I felt I might as well have it as somebody else. If any railroad president has not the ability to live on $25,000 a year salary he has not the ability to be president of the road.

Stockholders are like sheep. When they go out to the pasture to browse. When they don't get them they all start for the same hole in the fence and try to injure themselves.

I have always kept away from politicians because I might have something of value in my clothes.
